Less is more!

By Luis Cavallo

Have you ever heard the expression "Less is more?" Yes. Less really is more! It sounds crazy but it's true. This is especially true when it comes to your home. The less clutter you have the more space you will seem to have and the more positive energy you will have throughout the space. Or, as some would say, creating Feng Shui. Today modern day homes are all about having less clutter and more space. People want their homes to flow so they can move easier within them and achieve a sense of clarity and cleanliness. Creating spaces that naturally resist becoming cluttered has been a challenge for architects and interior designers alike. Even after they have drafted a brilliant layout and design there are always still a few quirks that add some unwanted intrusions. Protruding power outlets, air vents, light switches and other accessories can all inadvertently distract from the original design's objective. Well, what if you couldn't see any of the power outlets in a home? What if they just blended right into the design itself? That's exactly what Trufig has accomplished.

Trufig provides a revolutionary design solution that allows outlets and vent covers to be mounted completely flush with the wall or ceiling of a home. Light switches, power outlets and air ventilation covers become part of the wall itself. Becoming completely invisible from far away but noticeable when you get closer and actually need to use them. The design provides clean lines, without unattractive shadows or protrusions that compromise the flow of the space leaving it looking neat and clean at all times.

There are many details to the flush mount that are attractive and positive. When you are in the process of painting a home you need to remove all the power outlet faceplates and air ventilation covers from the wall or ceiling and add protective tape to these items so you don't accidentally paint over them. This involves removing multiple panels making the process time consuming and tedious. This is where the flush mount design provides a perfect solution for interior designers that are trying to optimize a space. Since this technology is always flush mounted, it allows facias to be painted, faux finished, wall papered or laminated. This adds to the invisibility factor that truly lets the original design stand out. Trufig has designed a variety of blank facias as well for devices that are not yet in use. These help maintain the contour of the walls, adding to the overall flow within the space.

Trufig Mounting Platforms allow for a repeatable, high quality result across multiple technologies and in a variety of installation surfaces. The installation process incorporates traditional trade methods ensuring fast, error-free results. The technologies range from light switches, volume controls, Lutron keypads, blank facias, data and video jacks, various Decora devices and many other blending solutions.

The Trufig Flush Mount Solution is a true fix for HVAC vents that protrude from the walls and ceilings in a home. Not only will Trufig remove the bulky look of old vents, it will also get rid of unattractive shadows and disrupting lines, adding a more modern and stylish look. There are many styles from which to choose, each with its own distinctive look.

Speakers that used to block pathways are now flush mounted within a wall. Trufig has many available speaker mounts and enclosures in different shapes and sizes to help accommodate the vision of any interior designer.

Trufig always stays on top of ever evolving new technologies. An example of this is their ability to now flush mount touch screen devices like the iPad. Doing this provides a fresh, clean look while allowing their customers to say right out on the cutting edge.

Trufig is the true fix solution of today's most innovative designers that respect the aesthetic interests of their clients. Proper use of flush mount technology creates a chameleon-like effect hides technology without sacrificing efficiency. One could certainly say that Trufig truly supports the idea that when it comes to your home, less really is more. Believe it!
